We Claim:

- Apparatus for detecting transitions between fluids comprising a laser, a cell to receive a fluid for analysis, a spectrometer, and a computer for processing a received signal.
- A method of detecting product interfaces between differing fluids comprising acquiring a Raman spectrum and comparing the incoming spectrum with a stored spectrum of the product.

BEST AVAILABLE COPY